

New Student Orientation (On-Ground and Online)

New students taking courses on-ground receive an invitation to the on-ground orientation. The purpose of New Student Orientation is to provide information and tools for each student's success from the point of program entry to degree completion. All new students are expected to attend the on-ground orientation. If students cannot attend the on-ground orientation, they should thoroughly review the New Admitted Students (<https://cps.northeastern.edu/current-students/orientation/>) site.
