

Global Health and Nutrition Entrepreneurship, Graduate Certificate (Boston)

The Graduate Certificate in Global Health and Nutrition Entrepreneurship is designed to prepare learners to be industry leaders by focusing on interdisciplinary processes and the technical, professional, and strategic expertise necessary for successfully engaging in global health, nutrition communication, entrepreneurship, financing, and program planning projects. With an emphasis on experiential learning, the certificate provides dynamic opportunities for learners with varying degrees of work experience to practice their knowledge globally and collaboratively.

Program Requirements

Complete all courses and requirements listed below unless otherwise indicated.

Required Courses

Code	Title	Hours
NTR 6101	Global Health/Nutrition Program Planning	3
NTR 6130	Global Healthcare and Nutrition Communication	3
NTR 6155	Global Health and Nutrition Entrepreneurship	3
NTR 6202	The Financing of Nutrition and Wellness	3

Program Credit/GPA Requirements

12 total semester hours required
Minimum 3.000 GPA required